He was born in Wurtemburg, Germany, on May 16, 1884, and, it was originally intended by his parents to make him a teacher. Instead, however, he early displayed such an aptitude for machinery that he became an apprentice under the brother of his stepmother, Mr. Hahl, a witch and cleck maker in Wuttembers. watch- and clock-maker in Wurtemberg, when he was 14 years old. In the fall of 1872, his term of apprenticeship having ex-pired, he came to this country to avoid being drafted into the army, and landed in Baltimore. He was then 18 years of age. He went to Washington with a trunk full of clothing and just $39 in paper money. Work was secured at once, and he soon took a leading place in the shop. White in Washington many important experiments were carried out under his direction, and he acquitted himself well.
The Hahl shop was removed to Baltimore, and, following the fortunes of
